DOCHERTY, HAUS TAKE HOME WINS IN 51ST ANNUAL PARK POINT 5-MILER

(DULUTH, MINN.) --- Daniel Docherty and Andrea Haus were the men's and women's winners, respectively, at the 2022 Park Point 5-Miler on Thursday evening in Duluth.

Docherty finished in a time of 24:41, marking just the 12th time that a men's runner has broken the 25:00 mark at Park Point. Docherty also won the event in 2017, also breaking the mark that year with a winning time of 24:24.

Matt Welch was the men's runner-up, finishing 22 seconds behind Docherty with a time of 25:03.

Haus, meanwhile, was a first-time winner of the event after finishing with a time of 29:02. She ended the race just two seconds off the 29:00 mark, which would have made her just the 14th woman to break that barrier at Park Point.

Julia Nielsen, who was the defending women's champion, was this year's runner-up after finishing 14 seconds off the pace with a time of 29:16. That time was nearly two minutes faster than the 31:15 pace she won with in 2021.

In the 2-Mile Walk, the men's winner was 12-year-old Brennan Callaghan with a time of 25:49 while 71-year-old Anne Hegg was the women's winner with a time of 26:01.

In total on Thursday night, there were 668 registrants and 572 finishers (266 men, 305 women), making it the most well-attended Park Point 5-Miler & 2-Mile Walk since 2017.
